

What Cities Have The Most Homeless People?

EXHIBIT 1.4: Estimates of Homeless People
By State 2013

Los Angeles, U.S.A.

The city of Los Angeles has one of the largest concentrations of homeless people in the United States. Currently, it houses about 57,737 homeless people (second only to New York city).

Mumbai, India

In 2003, there were about 23 million homeless people in India. Since then, the number has gone up despite the programs implemented by the government to reduce its homelessness rate. In Mumbai alone, there are about 25,000 people who sleep on the streets every night.

Washington, D.C.

According to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, the number of homeless people living in Washington in 2013 was around 6,865. Last year, the city government began to provide shelter to its homeless population whenever temperature levels dropped below freezing point. Those who do not want to stay in temporary shelters are provided with a budget to stay in hotels.

San Francisco, U.S.A.

Around 7,000 to 10,000 people in San Francisco, U.S.A. are homeless, 3,000 to 5,000 of which refuse to live in temporary shelters provided by the government.

Mexico City, Mexico

40% of the total population of Mexico is living in poverty and according to Non-Governmental Organizations (NGO) the number of people on the streets of the Mexican capital stands to be between 15,000 and 30,000.

Ontario, Canada

According to the homelessness statistics of World Cup, there are about 6,100 homeless people living in Ontario, Canada. The local government of Ontario is now partnering with several organizations to provide all the necessary services to this population.

Baltimore, Maryland

According to a 2011 study, there are about 4,088 homeless individuals in Baltimore, Maryland, many of which are families with children. Today, the city government is making strides towards putting an end to this social problem by creating projects aimed at providing affordable housing and health care.

Rio De Janeiro, Brazil

Rio De Janeiro is known for having a high homelessness rate with over 2,500 homeless people as of last year.

New York City

As of 2013, the number of homeless people sleeping each night in the New York City shelter system was already over 60,000, 22,000 of which were children. The homelessness crisis in New York is brought by the lack of housing assistance initiatives provided by local authorities to individuals and families who lack housing.

Moscow, Russia

There are about 5 million homeless people in Russia and of that number, 1 million are children. Studies show that Moscow has the largest share of homeless people in the country, accounting for 10,000 – 50,000 (depending on the source of information). Despite the ever growing number, there remains no social approach to the problem.

Chicago, Illinois

As of July 2013, analysis by Chicago Coalition for the Homeless found that 116,042 Chicagoans were homeless in the course of the 2012-13 school year. This is a 10% increase from last year's homeless population.

Indianapolis, Indiana

There are as many as 2,200 homeless people every night in the city of Indianapolis, which is equivalent to around 15,000 over the course of a year. Though this city is known for its faith-based shelters, there's just not enough shelters to provide a place for the entire homeless population.

Budapest, Hungary

In Budapest alone, there are about 10,000 homeless people. Recently, the Hungarian government passed a law that criminalizes homelessness, forcing those who do not want to stay in government-provided shelters to have their own homes. As of today, around 6,000 of the homeless population live in Budapest shelters.

Buenos Aires, Argentina

The Homeless are said to be the phantoms of Buenos Aires streets. As of today, there are about 15,000 homeless people residing in the filthy streets of the city and with the city's public refuges hosting 1,700 beds for the homeless, this is a scenario that is not going to change any time soon.

Dublin, Ireland

In a recent study shows that about seven people per day become homeless in Dublin. In 2013, there were about 2,366 people that were reported to be sleeping on the streets of Dublin every night. The government's failure to increase the stock of social housing is said to be the root cause of this social problem.

Denver, Colorado

According to the 2012 Point in Time report from Metro Denver Homeless Initiative, Denver saw an increase in its homeless population from 411 to 964 between the years of 2011 and 2012.

Sao Paulo, Brazil

Based on a study conducted recently, around 10,000 people are homeless in the center of Sao Paulo Brazil. Most sleep in old abandoned buildings and hotels.
